> Benefit Came, Friday, 3:30 P. M. A great deal of money has been spent in fitting two teams completely with uniforms. For the purpose of helping to defray this expense and also for experience gained by the term a game will be played on the Academy athletic field at 3:30, between the first and second teams. An admission charge of 25 cents will be made. It is hoped that the townspeople will turn out in mass for this same and give the boys their support. The support given the team at this stage of the game will mean a lot to

THE FORD is good-looking. It Is safe, Comfortable, Speedy. Reliable. Long-lived. Economical. Everything a good car should be.

There is, too, an added something about it that brings enthusiastic comments from every one who lins ever driven a Ford . . . the joy it puts in motoring. "I have been a car owner continuously for nearly 20 years," writes a motorist connected with a leading university. "During this period I have bought cleven new automobiles. Eight of the cloven were in the middle-price field, one cost three thousand dollars, and the last is a Ford I purchased thirteen months ago.

"In the light of this experience I can any in all sincerity that I have derived more genuine satisfaction from the saying this, I am thinking in terms of comfort, safety, driving pleasure, ease of control and economy. My next car will also be a Ford because it will give me what I want nt a price I can afford to pay."

When you get behind the wheel of the Ford and drive it yourself you will know it is a truly remarkable car at a low price. You will like it when you first buy it. You will become more and more enthus lastic the longer you drive it. After thousands of miles of driving

The Island, which is about the size and shape of Cuba, is traversed by a network of good roads and railroads. While traveling on either, the American tourist is seldom out of eyeshot of American products or products of American machinery. A traveler may engage an Italian, British, Spanish or French automobile for a tour, but a portion of the road he traverses is apt to be the product of American roadbuilding machinery.

Should a blowout occur on the highway, it is likely that one of the thousands of American-made tires that are shipped to the island annually would be as readily available as one of forign make. And the new tire may conwin some of the rubber which a short time before flowed from one of the frees on a vast rubber plantation near-

The traveler who prefers to see the island from a train window is unaware that machinery and tools bearing familiar trade marks help to keep his train running on schedule.

Rice farmers whose watery farms rise like a series of silvery lakes up the sides of Java bills, cling to antiquated wood implements, but here and there the blades of plows and harrows from American factories and waterworks in agricultural regions reveal American-made machinery.

With more than 700 inhabitants to the square mile, the natives must be Miclent farmers to feed the population. American fertilizer is the farmers' crop insurance, and when crops contract disease. American chemists furnish the medicine to bring them back to a healthful state.

Situated but a few hundred miles below the Equator, Java is hot, but the traveler often finds bis hotel room made comfortable by an American electric fan. The power that runs the fan may come from one of the many electric generators imported from

As a rule the hotels in Java are clean and well designed to meet the needs of a tropical climate. Usually, they consist of a main building openly constructed so that there is no hindrance to the alightest breeze. The service, complete in every detail, is enjoyed by foreigners. One takes his seat in a spacious parillon and is brought soup by an army of beturtaned Malays. Then large, deep plates are brought, on each of which is a supply of rice, one of the favored foods of the Island. On top of the elec, two faches deep, the diner is expected to blace a variety of vegetables, curries, dried fish, eggs, fowls and meat flavoted with peppery condiments. After right of the dishes are deposited on the Nec, the alper's appetite, if he is a novice, usually calls a halt and the tempining half of the sixteen varieties of the "coverings" are allowed to pass uniouched. gions of the Dutch East Indies. There are more than 20,000,000 native inhabitants with a sprinkling of Europeans and Chinese and other Asiatics. This population requires systematic cuitivation of the soil.

When the Dutch settled Batavia, the largest city on the Island, they brought their love for the lowlands and built their city of European type, closed houses on canals which coursed a broad swampy area. But as trading men and soldiers died by the thousands from malaria and other discuses aggravated by the swamp vapors around them, the settlers eventually learned that tropleal Java was not n lemperate Netherlands.

European Batavia, now on higher ground, is a healthy city, a great emporlum of trade and the metropolis of the Island, sprawling over a wide area. The old town is almost entirely given over to the Javanese, Chinese, Indians, Arabs and Malays.

The new city has spacious parks. made colorful by myriad flowers and the luxuriant growth of the Tropics. Near one of the parks rises the imposing facade of the Museum of the Ba-Society of Arts and Science with a copper elephant, the gift of the king of Slam, in the foreground. The Batavla museum has one of the finest ethnological collections of any justitution in the Far East and its publientions rank well among the learne? societies of Europe and America.

A sall of slightly more than 30 hours from Batavia brings the traveler to Socrabaya, the most important seaport in Java. Although the busy landing stage and bustling crowds to the streets impress the traveler of the Tosari a Pleasant Resort.

Nearby, but reached only after hours afoot, is the delightful resort Tosuri, A walk along the village's single street reveals the mode of life of Javanese mountaineers who are quite different from their neighbors in the lower valleys. Here are the homes of the Tenggerese, a hardy tribe which at the time of the Moslem Invasion of Java retreated to the mountains and successfully defended themselves against the lavaders. Tosarl is perched on a flank of the Tengger massif 5,480 feet above sen level where invigorating air makes mountain climbing much more pleasant than in the torrid regions in the Javanese foothills. Situated in the midst of the great East Indian volcano region, Java has its share of active and extinct craters. In fact the Island is volcano-made. It is estimated that there are more than 100 craters on the Island, Every where in Java, in the huge crater lakes, in lissures that now are river heds, even in ancient temples, half unshed when interrupted by some flery convulsion, are evidences of entaclysmic forces. Indians Have Representation in Maine Legislature The lower house of the legislature of Maine always includes one representative each from the Penobseqt and Passamaquoddy Indian tribes. These tribes, which constitute the only important bodies of aborigines remaining In New England, are remnants of the once powerful Abpaki confederacy and altogether they number only about 800 or 900 souls at the present time. The Indians are given representation to safeguard their tribul rights, and the two Indian representatives in the legislature are permitted to speak only on matters connected with the affairs of the Indian reservations, their function being comparable to that of delegates in congress from federal territories. For the most part the Penobscots live at Oldtown on ap Island in the Penobscot river above Bangor, while the Passamnquoddies reside in two groups, one at Peter Dana's Point and the other at Pleasant Point, both being near Passamaquoddy bay in the vicinity of Perry. The revised statutes of Mnine, Chapter 319, Section 44, provide: "On the first Tuesday of November, eighteen hundred and eighty-four and blennially thereafter, the Penobscar Indians shall hold their election for the choice of governor and lieutenant governor of said tribe, and a representative to the legislature of this state. The agent of said tribe shall give dotice of the time and place, seven days before said day of election, by posting notices thereof, one at his office and one in some conspicuous place on Old Town Island. Sald agent shall receive, sort, and count the votes given in at said election, in presence of the members of the tribe, and shall give to those elected certificates thereof." Section 55 contains similar provisions for an election held by the agents at Pleasant Point and Peter I ana's Point for the selection of a member of the levislature to represent

Why Air Bubbles on Pond When the raindreps are quite large, as they are near the beginning of certala showers, they fall into a body of water with sufficient force to drag after them, as small pebbles do, brables of air, which are entrapped by the closing water above. These bubbles are small and often do not break immediately. They break when struck by a raindrop, or, sooner or inter, even when not struck.

Why Rainfall From Sky Doctor Humphreys of the weather bureau has presented an explanation in which he states that the actual falling of rain results from the fact that additional condensation takes place on the drops of water already formed and suspended in the cloud. They grow in size and become too heavy to be retained in the air and fall down as rain.

Why Cross in Street Lamp The bureau of standards says that the appearance of four light rays from a street famp when viewed at night from a window is a diffraction phonomenon, arising from the wave nature of light-namely, bending around obstacles and interfering.

There are hundreds of people in Bethel trading circle who do not visit your store, or even gaze at your windows, each week.

Even if they did come in, it would not be practical to explain in detail your special offerings to each one. Your window display and your personal salesmanship each have their place.

For a very small percentage of your weekly sales receipts you can reserve a conspicuous space in the Citizen's advertising columns, and hundreds of your present or future patrons could learn of your offerings before leaving their homes.

Merchants who have consistently used the Citizen service have benefitted thereby, and their customers receive better values. Most satisfactory results are assured with a definite publicity program covering the whole year.

NINETEEN TWENTIETHS!

Contribution to The CITIZEN by D. S. Brooks, Bethel, Maine (Helfred Baptist Moister)

I was reading recently an oid Chl neso proverb to the effect that, if one have a journey of twenty when to make, he should count nincteen of those folies the first hair, and one inal mile to award count the estand half compiled to show how rich was the of the fearney. In an under thing or land of his conquest. But the town. an exerceism into noble is ingelies old although greatly interesting to the Children prough holds true is in the historian, does not especially concern last will, the last beganned achieve carnt, that counts for more than all that him gove before, Decre one him well wild that every ludicidual life. hewever prosale, is a great adventure, ton was the direct ancestor of George is a pashing forward into the great Washington and that Sulgrave manor unknown, and the last measure of by right of descent belonged to him. achievement counts for more than all As a gift to cement the hundred years' that precedes. If we live the true peace between the two great Englishlife, we realize that Browning is right when he cays that It is "the last of life, for which the first was made." If we do not feel that the last year stitution to be an active center of of our lives counts for more than the work for the furtherance of Anglo-Years that proceded it, a certain conactourness of defeat Inevitably takes possession of us.

For some months, I have been improssed, because of such broken health, that this might be the last year of my life so, friends, the thing I want to emphasize in your minds and hearts in this little contribution in that it is the extra of which we are capable, that which is above what is expected of us, the everflow water of life, above the ordinary gauge of the river-it is that that we must strugttle for and achieve.

I will illustrate my meaning: Many horses can approach to within nintoon hundredths of the speed of the who make the record; but unless this can do more than this tury will inco er be permitted to epier the rec track, and, so for an speed reconcorned, are counted fallows him may construct a hullding, and it may be ever no live, but It it in left reneteen twentieths complete, tenants will turn from H as wolft for rate ideration. What I am trying to put deep late our conschwoness in this that it is infinitely important that we hold ourselves under bond to appire to the very top, the very summit of goodness and truth in character and in conduct

In conclusion, let me add, that the world needs that we, each of us, shall be a new incarnation of God among men, so that the divine leveliness may be made apparent through us.

Sleepy Little Culgrave There is great charm in the little town of Sulgrave of not more than 400 inhabitants so far from the ways of railroads and modern traffic. It is of old houses of the Tudor times, although there are of course a few modern dwellings. Salgrave was mentioned in the Domesday book, that curliest record of our Suxon ancestors which William the Conqueror had us until it was purchased by Lawrence Wasshyngton when he was twice mayor of Northampton. It has been conclusively proved by recent investigation that this Lawrence Wasshyngspeaking nations it was purchased by the British peace centenary committee In 1914, along with ten acres of land and handed over to the Sulgrave in-American friendship.—Boston Herald.

Rome's Downfall The Roman cupies originated after the bartle of Action, R. C 31, and the decline began with the death of Mar cus Aurchus, 180 A. D. Conributing causes through the centuries were the aggressive influx of large numbers of German peoples; hostile advance of the Persions; Internal dissension; resalt of the provinces; ingrafiles under Heliogabalus of oriental rites and practices, repugnant to the Roman people; a pestilence which lasted in years and carried off one-half of the Inhabitants of the empire; the lovasion of the Goths and Huns, and the final aggression of vandals from Africa. The end of the Roman empire! of the West was practically complete by A D, 470.

Eroslon Worse Than Drought in a year of drought it is fined to remember that in normal seasons there are usually many million-dollar rates, that is, forrential dosepours which carry tons of top soil off the farins into the streams and rivers. In some especially rainy years the an must loss is reckoned in millions of tons of good fartaing land which eventually is carried out to sea. This unhampered erasion is largely due to the decording of forests at the head waters of streams, and, too, the farm ers scherally have done little to prorent heavy washouts in their awa fields. TRACING ORIGIN OF

The name Republican has been applied to three parties, a fact which lyes rise to confusion. The Republean party of today originated in 1854-56, after the dissolution of the Whic party. The southern Whig went over to the Democratic party on the slavery question and the northern Whigs afilluted with the Free Soll and Know-Nothing parties. At a meeting held at Ripon, Wis., in 1854, a group of Whigs, Free Sollers and Democrats threatened to form a new party if the Kansas-Nebraska bill passed. The bill passed, and on July 6, 1854, representatives of the same groups het at Jackson, Mich., and formed a party to which they gave the name Republican, In the election that fall, the new party carried 15 of the 31 states. The Democrafic party as now known began with the Anti-Federalists, who opposed the federal Constitution because of the rights surrendered by the intes to the federal government. In 1402, 11 took the name Republican party to oppose the Federalist party. It was later sometimes known as the Democratic-Republican party, which hame is still the official designation of the Democratic party. After its principles were clearly formulated in 1798 by Thomas Jefferson, it was sometimes called Democratic, but generally Republican, until Andrew Jackson's administration, which began in 1829. He was the first President to be officially listed under the name Democrat.

Doors' Salt-Water Swim

Two lobster fishermen, trimining their catch in their motor dory, about Branch, N. J., were surprised to see two buck deer swimming in the ocean and headed for their boat. The men slipped lines over the heads of the exhausted deer and pulled them into the dory. When the bont reached shore the deer struggled to get out, and the fishermen had a rough-andtumble time hog-tring them. The bucks were later released in the woods. It is believed that dogs bad chased the deer into the ocean.

Perfume "Centers" When Catherine de Medici went to France she was accompanied by a fa-Florentine perfumer named Rene, and ever since that time the French have made great progress in the art. Certain districts in France are noted for certain perfumes. Cannes is noted for its perfumes of the rose, tuberose, cassia and Jasmine; Nimes for thyme, rosemary and lavender, and Nice for the yielet and mignonette. In fact, most of the flowers which form the basis of natural perfumes are grown in the vicinity of Grasse, Cannes

FIRST nonstop nirplane flight from Japan to the United States was made by Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon, Jr., the young Americans on to Japan, where they were arrested and fined for flying over and photographing fortifications. Starting from Samushiro leach and dropping their landing gear, they took the course over Dutch Harbor and down the coast to Seattle. But they didn't stop there. Instead they circled Mt. Ranfer three times and flew on to Wenatchee, Wash., the home of Pangborn's mother, and there made a perilous landing in the dust. The little capital of the apple country went wild over the boys, and a representative of the Japanese paper Archi handed them a check for $25,000, the prize for which they were trying.
